

SENATOR JAMES' SISTER IS BRIDE

J. F. Gordon, Circuit Judge At Madisonville, and Miss Ruby James, are Quietly Married.

GROOM STEALS MARCH ON FRIENDS AT HOME

Judge J. F. Gordon, of Madisonville, Circuit Judge of the district comprised of Hopkins, Crittenden, Caldwell and Livingston Counties, stole a march on his friends yesterday, after telling them when he left home Tuesday that he was coming to Louisville to hear the election returns.

Judge Gordon and Miss Ruby James, of Marion, were quietly married at 7 o'clock last evening at the home of the Rev. S. J. Thompson, pastor of the Crescent Hill Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Thompson, who was presiding elder at the district in which Judge Gordon and Miss James lived some years ago.

After the ceremony, Judge and Mrs. Gordon, went to the Seelbach, where a small dinner party was entertained. In the party were Judge and Mrs. Gordon, Senator and Mrs. Ollie M. James, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Grayot, of Smithland, and Miss Lena James, a niece of the bride.

The bride is a sister of Senator Ollie James and of Edgar James, United States Marshal of the Western District of Kentucky. Mr. Grayot, who attended the dinner, is Commonwealth's Attorney in Judge Gordon's district.

Judge and Mrs. Gordon will be at the Seelbach for several days, after which they will return home, as Judge Gordon must soon resume his duties on the bench.

Claims Burning Leaves Causes Diphtheria

Carlisle, Ky., Nov. 4. — The city of Carlisle has put the ban on burning leaves, as it is claimed that this causes diphtheria.

DIPHTHERIA AT SEBREE

Sebree, Ky., Nov. 4.—Diphtheria has made its appearance in the city again. There are two new cases reported.

Do You Trust your Watch

You've seen people look at their watch and then ask some one else the time of day.

He can't trust his watch.

If yours is that kind, you'd better throw it away.

If you're going to buy a new watch, be sure that you get a trustworthy watch, one that can swear by; one that you can catch the train by, or keep an engagement by.

We sell trustworthy watches and guarantee them.

HALLOW'E'N PARTY GIVEN BY SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASSES

Pleasant Evening Spent by Large Number, for Good Cause

The Hallow'e'en celebration given by the young ladies of the Philathea class and the young men of the Baruca class, of the Methodist Sunday School, in the lodge rooms of the Victory building, was a marked success, in attendance, spirit and material results. Those on the inside say that the cooperation of effort on the part of these two organizations on this and former occasions has been both pleasant and profitable, financially and socially.

The hall was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage and jack-o lanterns. The attendance was large, including many children, and there was "go" in the program from start to finish. Some well arranged stunts, in which all could participate, took the edge off of any formality early in the evening and good cheer prevailed throughout. Refreshments were served. Miss Adeline Toombs, teacher of the Philathea class and the recognized leader, was assisted ably by committees from both classes and the proceeds were divided into the treasuries of the two organizations. They are thought to be adding up for future offerings to help reduce the church building fund.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR

Try This! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful at once Immediate? Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair become slight, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25c bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

Valuable Kentucky Cattle to be Killed at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 4. Owing to the foot and mouth disease, nearly all the fine cattle sent here from many points for the National Dairy Show, must be killed. Same are worth thousands.

Among the losers are these from Kentucky: T. P. Middleton, of Eminence; W. K. Spann, of Shelbyville. It is estimated they lose $50,000 each.

Itching, bleeding, protruding or bluish pills have yielded to Doan's Ointment. See at all drug stores.

Think of a dollar!

A DOLLAR—what is it? A piece of silver, a slip of paper?

No, it is part of you, part of your life—minutes measured in dimes and pennies.

Waste it, throw it away and you destroy that much of YOU.

Save it and you save that much of yourself.

A good savings account is a life-saver for dollars; if you haven't got one you're adrift and—Think!

This Bank helps you think of a dollar—it helps you think MORE of a dollar.

ARKANSAS MINING DISTRICT QUIET

Hartford Valley Waiting Arrival of United States Troops.

Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 4.—Conditions were quite today in the Hartford Valley Coal Mining regions where the inhabitants are awaiting the arrival of Federal troops, sent on orders of President Wilson, to enable the United States Court to carry out its orders in administering the receivership of the Bache-Dennan Coal Company.

Major N. F. McClure, who will command troops en route from Fort Sheridan, Illinois, reached Fort Smith, this afternoon.

"I am unable to say in advance whether martial law will be declared at once," said Major McClure. "It will depend largely on conditions. The soldiers are due here tomorrow night."

The Federal grand jury summoned to investigate conditions in the mining region was empaneled today.

J. V. Bourland, United States Attorney for the Western District of Arkansas, and his assistants have been relieved of duties in connection with the investigation. R. B. Hull, special assistant to the United States Attorney General and Billups Harris, special agent for the Bureau of Investigation, of the Department of Justice will be in charge of the grand jury work.

EIGHT MULES ARE KILLED

Mine Has to Close Down as Result of Train's Havoc Sebree, Ky., Nov. 3.—Southbound L. & N. train No. 63, killed 8 mules, one horse and a dog, property of the Panama Coal Company, at Sebree, five miles from here, this morning. The mines had to close down for the want of mules.

Miss Beulah Caviness was a passenger on the train that killed these animals. She was asleep and did not know anything happened. The locomotive had an electric headlight and the engineer saw the stock as his train drove around a curve, but could not stop, and threw open the throttle to lessen the danger to his train and passengers.

HEAD AND NOSTRILS STUFFED WITH COLD

"Pape's Cold Compound" ends a cold or gripe in a few hours

Your cold will break and all gripe misery end after taking a dose of "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until three doses are taken.

Bear in mind that Chamberlain's Tablets not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. For sale by All Dealers.

ROBINSON BROS. INSTALLING THEIR NEW MACHINE SHOP

Will Probably Move to Madisonville in a Short While

Ben W. Robinson, manager of the Equality Coal Co., Equality, Ill., is spending part of this week in Madisonville and Earlington. He, with John B. Robinson, his brother, are installing their new machine shop at Madisonville and will be in full working order soon. They are already doing some work and are ready for more. Both of the Messrs. Robinson will probably move their families to Madisonville, within a short while and develop this new business, with which they are both familiar through years of experience in handling and building machinery and their extensive experience as coal mine operators. Madisonville is to be congratulated upon getting these two good and progressive men and upon the establishment by them of a new industry like this at the county seat.

Despondency Due to Indigestion

It is not at all surprising that persons who have indigestion become discouraged and despondent. Here are a few words of hope and cheer for them by Mrs. Blanche Bowers, Indiana, Pa. "For years my digestion was so poor that I could only eat the lightest foods. I tried everything that I heard of to get relief, but not until about a month ago when I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and got a bottle of them, did I find the right treatment. I soon began to improve, and since taking a few bottles of them my digestion is fine. For sale by All Dealers."

CHRISTMAS SHIP

To Bear Many Warm and Useful Gifts from the People of Earlington.

When the United States Collier, the Jason, flying the Stars and Stripes and an immense banner of white, representing peace, on which shines a golden star, symbol of the Star of Bethlehem, steams from Brooklyn harbor on November 10th she will carry many warm and useful gifts from the people of Earlington. These gifts bear the names and addresses of people from practically all the religious bodies of the city, and are to be distributed in Belgium, England, France, Russia and Germany. The gifts signify in most cases their favorite country.

A number of our ladies have from the first been interested in the movement to send Christmas cheer to the war stricken countries of Europe, but until Sunday it was not brought before the public, and in this brief time enough gifts were sent to fill three boxes, but our people are always generous and willing to help in a worthy cause. Had the matter been given a little more publicity, there is no doubt but that the gifts would have been greatly multiplied.

The Jason will be manned entirely by American sailors and is being sent at the expense of the government. Every state in the union will be represented in its cargo, and every suffering child in Europe has been remembered. The railroads and express companies have aided materially in furnishing free transportation for the gifts.

For regular action of the bowels, easy, natural movements, relief of constipation, try Doan's Regulants. 25c at all stores.

PEACE PROMISED FOR HOPKINS

Sheriff Logan Says That There Will be no More Night Rider Raids.

EXPECTS RESTORATION OF NORMAL CONDITIONS SOON

A reporter of The Bee called on Tom Logan, sheriff of the County, this morning and asked him to make a statement in regard to the condition of affairs in the county growing out of the depredations by night-riders that has so terrorized the citizens in certain sections of the county for the past few weeks. Mr. Logan stated that he had taken the matter in hand, and had taken the proper steps to insure peace and quietude and that he felt sure no further lawless acts would be attempted or carried out. He said that there was some uneasiness among the citizens in and around St. Charles last evening and that some of the more nervous were anticipating a raid and that to allay the fears of these people, he dispatched three deputy sheriffs to that place to spend the night but that the night passed off quietly without any sign of disorder and that he is confident no raid or other depredation was even contemplated. "You may say in your paper," said Mr. Logan, "that I have the matter in hand and if the people will stop agitating and give me a free hand, it will be but a short time until all of these troubles will be forgotten. I feel absolutely sure that there will be no more night rider troubles in this county."

YOU'RE ILLIOUS AND COSTIVE! CASCARETS

Tonight! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach

Get a 10 cent box now!

Furred tongue, Bad colds, Indigestion, Sallow skin and Miserable headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomachs, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Ladies' Aid Entertains

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church, south, gave a most delightful social in the Baruca room, Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5, the occasion being the 10th anniversary of the society. A report of the work of the society was read which was received with pleasure by the members. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in music, contests and readings. Dainty refreshments were served. A number of new members were added and the prospects are most encouraging for the coming year.

WATER WORKS FOR SEBREE

Sebree, Ky., Nov. 4.—The water works proposition carried by a nice majority in the election here yesterday. Sebree has suffered from so many fires that an effort will now be made to install a water works system for the town.

A two cent grin and a lifted Helps some, my boy, helps some.

There has been some interesting doings about the Graded school building this week and a number of young Halloween roysterers, some of whom just didn't think, might have been seen laboring in the sweat of their brows and with more or less contribution of conscience to remove the stain of their guilt from the doors, windows and steps of that handsome building, which is generally held in proper respect for the good work done there, by young and old of Earlington.
All participants were known, some of whom were not of the school. The penance required was not too severe and did not include any corporal punishment by the faculty, but was of such character as to make a lasting moral impression on the boys and to help them to right action in the future and the avoidance of the notorious fate of Old Dog Tray, who got in bad company work can be done than to build up the boys and help them to do right.

residences in Earlington during the present year. These improvements have been numerous and substantial during the past two years, including a number of excellent new cottages built by as

Sam Lovelace is Mysteriously Missing

Mannington Man Can't be Located and Fears of Foul Play Entertained.

The family and friends of Sam Lovelace, of Mannington, are fearful that he has met with foul play.
He went to Empire Tuesday, evening and collected $500, the coal company owed him, after which it appears he got with some friends and played cards until about three o'clock Wednesday morning, when he left ostensibly for home, one and a half miles distance.

Nothing has been seen or heard of him since. Near Empire there are two old abandoned coal shafts and it is feared he was thrown into one of these. Lovelace married a sister of Walter McIntosh and an investigation is being made.

No Exceptions.

COULD NOT SLEEP, COULD NOT EAT

Woman So Weak and Nervous Could Not Stand Her Children Near Her—Vinol Changed Everything for Her

Plant City, Fla.—"I wish I could tell everybody about Vinol. For nine years I was in bad health. I got so I could not sleep, and I could not stand to have my children come near me. I could not even sew or do any heavy housework.
I was simply tired all the time. I tried so many medicines I could not recall them all, but nothing did me any good.
One day a friend asked me to try Vinol and said it was the best tonic she ever saw. I did so, and soon got the first good night's sleep I had had for a long time. Now I sleep well, my appetite is good, my nervousness is all gone and I am so strong and well I do all my housework and work in my flower garden without feeling tired or nervous. Vinol has made me a well and happy woman." —Mrs. C. H. MILLER, Plant City, Fla.

Vinol contains the curative, healing principles of fresh cod livers (without oil) and tonic iron.
"We ask every weak, run-down, nervous person in this vicinity to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to benefit."

CHAPTER VII.

The Mutineer.

Within the hour Rose Trine stood before her father in that somber room wherein he wore out his crippled days.
In that place of silence and shadows whose sinister color-scheme of crimson and black was the true livery of his monomania—his passion for vengeance that alone kept warm the embers of life in that wasted and move-less frame.

An impish malice glimmered in his sunken eyes as he kept her waiting upon his pleasure. And when at length he decided to speak, it was with a ring of hateful irony in that strangely sonorous voice of his.

"Rose," he said slowly—"my daughter!—I am told you have today been guilty of an act of disloyalty to me."

She said coolly: "You had me spied upon."

"Naturally, with every reason to question your loyalty, I had you watched."

She waited a significant moment, then dropped an impassive monosyllable into the silence: "Well!"

"You have visited the man Digby, servant and friend of the man I hate —and you love."

She said, without expression: "Yes."
"Repeat what passed between you."

"I shall not, but on one condition."

"And that is?"

"Tell me first whether it was you who sent the rose to Alan Law—and more, where Judith has been during the last fortnight?"

"I shall tell you nothing, my child.
Repeat"—the resonant voice rang with inflexible purpose—"repeat what the man Digby told you!"

The girl was silent. He endured her stare for a long minute, a spark of rage kindling to flame the evil old eyes.

Then his one living member that had power to serve his iron will, a hand like the claw of a bird of prey, moved toward a row of buttons sunk in the wall, behind of his desk.

"I warn you I have ways to make you speak."

With a quick movement the girl bent over and grasped the bony wrist in her strong fingers. With her other hand, at the same time, she whipped open an upper drawer of the desk and took from it a revolver, which she placed at a safe distance.

"To the contrary," she said quietly, "you will remember that the time has passed when you could have me punished for disobedience. You will call nobody: if interrupted, I shall hesitate to defend myself. And now"—laying hold of the back of his chair, she moved it some distance from the desk —"you may as well be quiet while I find for myself what I wish to know."

For a moment he watched in silence as she bent over the desk, rummaging its drawers. Then with an infuriated gesture of his left hand, he began to curse her.

She shuddered a little as the black oaths histered his thin old lips, dedicating her and all she loved to sin, infamy and sorrow; but nothing could stay her in her purpose. He was breathless and exhausted when she straightened up with an exclamation of satisfaction, studied intently for a moment a sheaf of papers, and thrust them hastily into her hand-bag, together with the revolver.

Then touching the push-button which released a secret and little-used door, without a backward glance she slipped from the room and, closing the door securely, within another minute had made her way unseen from the house.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Incredible Thing.

Broad daylight, the top of a morning as rare as ever broke upon the north country. Alan Law opening bewildered eyes to realize the substance of a dream come true.

True it proved itself, at least, in part. He lay between blankets upon a couch of balsam fane, in a corner of somebody's camp—a log structure, weather-proof, rudely but adequately furnished. His clothing, rough-dried but neatly mended, lay upon a chair at his side.

He rose and dressed in haste, at once exulting in his sense of complete rest and renewed well-being, a prey to hints of an extraordinary appetite, and provoked by signs that seemed to bear out the weirdest flights of his delirious fancies.

There were apparently indisputable evidences of a woman's recent presence in the camp: blankets neatly folded upon a second bed of aromatic balsam in the farther corner; an effect of orderliness not common with guides; a pair of dainty buckskin gauntlets depending from a nail in the wall; and—he stood staring wildly at it for more than a minute—a old preserve jar on the table, a single rose, warm and red, dew upon its petals!

There was also fire in the cook stove, with a plentiful display of things to cook; but despite his hunger Alan didn't stop for that, but rushed to the door and threw it open and himself out into the sunshine, only to pause, dashed, chagrined, mystified.

Copyright, 1914, by Louis Joseph Vance

There was no other living thing in sight but a loon that sported far up the river and saluted him with a shriek of mocking laughter.

The place was a cleft in the hills, a table of level land some few acres in area, bounded on one hand, beneath the cliff from which he had dropped, by a rushing river fat with recent rains; on the other by a second cliff of equal height. Upstream the water curved round the shoulder of a towering hill, downstream the cliffs closed upon it until it roared through a narrow gorge.

Near the camp, upon a strip of shelving beach that bordered the river where it widened into a deep, dark pool, two canoes were drawn up, bottoms to the sun. Dense thickets of pines, oaks, and balsams hedged in the clearing.

He was, it seemed, to be left severely to himself, that day; when he had cooked and made way with an enormous breakfast, Alan found nothing better to do till time for luncheon than to explore this pocket domain.

He feasted famously again at noon; whiled away several hours vainly whipping the pools with rod and tackle lashed in the camp, for trout that he really didn't hope would rise beneath that blazing sun; and toward three o'clock lounged back to his aromatic couch for a nap.

The western sun had thrown a deep, cool shadow across the cove when he was awakened by importuate hands and a voice of magic.

Rose Trine was kneeling beside him, clutching his shoulders, calling on him by name—distracted by an inexplicable anxiety.

He wasted no time discriminating between dream and reality, but gathered both into his arms. And for a moment she rested there unresisting, sobbing, quietly.

"What is it? What is it, dearest?" he questioned, kissing her tears away.
"To find you all right. . . . I was so afraid!" she cried brokenly.

"Of what? Wasn't I all right when you left me here this morning?" She disengaged with an effort, rose, and looked down strangely at him.

"I did not leave you here this morning, Alan. I wasn't here."

That brought him to his own feet in a jiffy. "You were not!" he stammered. "Then who—?"

"Judith," she stated with conviction.
"Impossible! You don't understand."

The girl shook her head. "Yet I know: Judith was here until this precipitating both into that savage water."

morning. I tell you I know—I saw her only a few hours ago. She passed us in a canoe with one of her guides, while we watched in hiding on the banks. Not that alone, but another of her guides told me she was here with you. She had sent him to South Portage for quinine. He stopped there to get drunk—and that's how my guide managed to worm the information from him."

Alan paused a hand across his eyes.
"I don't understand," he said dully.
"It doesn't seem possible she could—"

A shot interrupted him, the report of a rifle from a considerable distance upstream, echoed and re-echoed by the cliffs. And at this, clutching franitically at his arm, the girl drew him through the door and down toward the river.

"Oh, come, come!" she cried wildly. "There's no time!"

"But, why? What was that?"
Judith is returning. I left my guide up the trail to signal us. Don't you know what it means if we don't manage to escape before she gets here?"

"But how?"
"According to the guide the river's the only way other than the trail." The current is too strong. They could follow—not us at leisure from canoes.

"But downstream—the current with us—"

"These rapids?"
"We must shoot them!"
"Can it be done?"
"It must be!"

Two more shots put a period to his doubts and drove it home. He offered no further objection, but turned at once to launch one of the canoes.

As soon as it was in the water, Rose took her place in the bow, paddle in hand, and Alan was about to step in astern when a fourth shot sounded and a bullet kicked up turf within a dozen feet. A glance discovered two figures debouching into the clearing.
He dropped into place and, planting paddle in shallows, sent the canoe well out with a vigorous thrust.

Two strokes took it to the middle of the pool where immediately the current caught the little craft in its urgent grasp and sped it smoothly through more narrow and higher banks. A moment more and the mouth of the gorge was yawning for them.

With the clean balance of an experienced canoeist, Alan rose to his feet for an instantaneous reconnoissance both forward and astern. He looked back first, and groaned in his heart to see the sharp prow of the second canoe glide out from the banks. He looked ahead and groaned aloud. The rapids were a wilderness of shouting waters, white and green, worse than anything he had anticipated or ever dreamed of.

But there was now no escaping that ordeal. The canoe was already spinning between walls where the water ran deep and fast with a glassy surface.

The next instant it was in the jaws; and the man settled down to work with grim determination, pitting courage and strength and experience against the ravening waters that tore at the canoe on every hand, whose mad clamor beat back and forth between the walls of the gorge like vast howlings of infernal mirth.

He fought like one possessed.
There was never an instant's grace for judgment or execution; the one must be synchronous with the other, both instantaneous, or else—destruction.

The canoe wove this way and that like an insane shuttle threading some satanic loom. Now it hesitated, nuzzling a gigantic boulder over which the water wove a pale green and glistening hood, now in the space of a heartbeat it shot forward twice its length through a sea of creaming waves, now plunged wildly toward what promised instant annihilation and cheated that only by the timely plunge of a paddle, guided by luck or instinct or both.

The one ray of hope in Alan's mind, when he surveyed before committing himself and the woman he loved to that hideous gauntlet, sprang from the fact that, however rough, the rapids were short. Now, when he had been in their grasp a minute, he seemed to have been there hours.

His laborings were tremendous, unbelievable, inspired. In the end they were all but successful. The goal of safety was within thirty seconds' more of quick, hard work, when Alan's paddle broke and the canoe swung broadside to a boulder, turned turtle and precipitated both headlong into that savage water.

As the next few minutes passed he was fighting like a mad thing against overwhelming odds. Then, of a sudden, he found himself rejected, spewed forth from the cataract and swimming mechanically in the smooth water of a wide pool beyond the lowermost eddy, the canoe floating bottom up near by, and Rose supporting herself with one hand on it.

Her eyes met his, clear with the sanity of her adorable courage.

He floundered to her side, panted instructions to transfer her hand to his shoulder, and struck out for the nearer shore.

Both found footing at the same time and waded out, to collapse, exhausted, against the bank.

Then, with a sickening quail, Alan remembered the pursuit. He rose and looked up the rapid just in time to view the last swift quarter of the canoe's descent: Judith in the bow, motionless, a rifle across her knees, in the stern an Indian guide kneeling and fighting the waters with scarcely perceptible effort in contrast with Alan's supreme struggles.

Like a living thing the canoe seemed to gather itself together, to poise, to leap with all its strength; it hurled the eddy in a bound, took the still water with a mighty splash, and shot downstream at diminished speed, the Indian furiously backing water.

As though that had been the one moment she had lived for, Judith lifted her rifle and brought it to bear —upon her sister.

With a cry of horror, Alan fung himself before Rose, a living shield, anticipating nothing but immediate death. This was not accorded him.
For a breathless instant the woman in the canoe stared along the sights, then lowered her weapon and, turning, spoke indistinctly to the guide, who instantly began to ply a brisk paddle.

The canoe sped on, vanished swiftly round a bend.

After a long time, Alan voiced his unmitigated amazement:
"Why—in the name of heaven!
Why—?"

The girl said dully: "Don't you know?" And when he shook his head, "Her guide told me you had saved her life on the dam at Spirit Lake."

They Found a Footing.

Now do you see?
His countenance was blank with wonder: "Gratitude?"

Rose smiled wearily: "Not gratitude alone, but something more terrible. . . . She rose and held out her hand. "Not that I can blame her. . . . But come; if we strike through here we will, I think, pick up a trail that will bring us to Black Beaver settlement by dark."

Col. Wilgus Ends Life With Bullet

Hopkinsville Shocked Over Demise of Beloved Citizen.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 2.—This city was shocked Sunday morning when it became known that Col.
Will A. Wilgus, one of Hopkinsville's most prominent and best loved citizens, had ended his life. The fatal shot was fired into his heart at the residence of W. S. Holmes, where Col. Wilgus made his home.
He lived but a few minutes. Despendency due to ill health was the cause of the rash act in taking his life. Despite the fact that he was depressed over the condition of his health, Col. Wilgus, true to his lovable nature, tried at all times to be cheerful in the presence of his friends, who did all in their power to cheer him up.

REPORT OF FUNERAL OF CROWN PRINCE

Washington, November 2.—A private letter received by a young woman in Washington from a Lieutenant in the German Army refers to "the funeral of the Crown Prince." The letter came to the attention of State Department officials when its recipient asked the American government to undertake to transmit a reply. It made only casual reference to "the funeral" speaking of the big crowds present.
A week ago dispatches from London reported the receipt there of private letters saying the Crown Prince had been buried.

CLOTHING HATS

THIS STORE—ONE OF THE LARGEST IN INDIANA

Owning its tremendous success and leadership to the economy with which it distributes reliable clothes.

And this year there are better clothes here than ever at prices that are no higher. We have specialized our suits and overcoats at $15, $18, $20 and on up to $35. Most of them are from our own Baltimore factory. We know they are made as good clothes should be made—all wool materials, careful designing, and the best of all, tailoring. The results are wonderful clothes value.

And all through the store, in each and every department, will be found the best merchandise we can possibly buy prices to show we mean it, when we say we try to see how much we can give—not get.

ANTI-GANGRENE SERUM IS FOUND

Paris, Nov. 4.—A microbe which causes gangrene in bullet and shrapnel wounds has been discovered by Drs. Jas. Scarlett and George Des Jardins of the American Ambulance service. After much experimentation on horses and guinea pigs a serum is now being prepared by Dr. Henri Weisberg of the Pasteur Institute.

The discovery is expected in medical circles to have world-wide importance. The serum is being injected into patients on the battlefield in the early stages of infection, obviating amputations and preventing great loss of life.

Best Cough Remedy for Children

Three years ago when I was living in Pittsburgh one of my children had a hard cold and coughed dreadfully. Upon the advice of a druggist I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it benefited him at once. I find it the best cough medicine for children because it is pleasant to take. They do not object to taking it," writes Mrs. Lafayette Luck, Homer City, Pa. This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. CARRANZA SAYS HAS NOT RESIGNED

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 4.—Gen. Carranza never sent his resignation to the Aguascalientes convention and the message to that effect received there was a telegraphic error, according to a message from Carranza to Benjamin Hill, his commander in Sonora. Carranza asserted he still was the head of the Constitutionalists army and notified Hill that he would expect him to execute his orders.

Four Additional States Vote Dry

Washington, Colorado, Oregon and Arizona Oust Saloons, two Wet

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Four of the six states that voted Tuesday on prohibition, according to latest returns tonight, decided to forbid the sale of alcoholic beverages in future and two voted to retain saloons. Ohio and California kept their saloons, while Washington, Colorado, Oregon and Arizona closed theirs.

Ohio retained saloons by a large majority adopting the home rule amendment that was organized as a saloon measure.

National headquarters of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Chicago today received returns from the election. News that was declared to be encouraging came from all the states concerned, the defeats in the two states being offset, the reports add by indications of progress over previous conditions.
